¹ In all the Pagan religions the characteristics of one deity often trench upon those of another, and in Chaldean the most exalted equities were divided between a number of gods. Thus, Bel is the "father of the gods, the king of the spirits," Anu and Merodach are each "the original chief" and "the most ancient;" Nebo is the "lord of lords, who has no equal in power;" Sin is "the king of the gods and the lord of spirits," etc. The same symbol also stands for different gods. Hies and Nebo, each as the "god of intelligence," "teacher and instructor of men," have for one of their emblems the wedge or arrowhead characters used in cuneiform writing.

Life is a stream

Chuck & Mary Perrin

LIFE IS A STREAM
 Life is a stream
 That cannot stop
 I promised long ago to never stand still
 Love is a dream
 A dance beneath the stars
 Funnys how it's always there but ever moving
 Time brings change
 Don't be afraid
 A river empties constantly
 But always stays the same
 The rivers flow
 And I shall grow
 Beyond the banks that today contain me
